Richard Lazar should never have puit his pen down. His astounding account of the inner workings of the human mind is not only factually impectable, but his his style in presenting one of the most conceptually challenging areas in medicine made me buy the book for my young son Spencer for Christmas. It reads like a novel. Richard Lazar is my hero, and it is because of him that my son has hcosen to enter the field of Neorology. Richard, your next book should be on the priciples of life!
