Raptor (Dragon Blood Book 6)

Synopsis

Responsible for her friend's death, Lieutenant Caslin Ahn wants nothing more than to be left alone. She no longer deserves the company of comrades or the fulfillment she felt as a Wolf Squadron fighter pilot. But a summons from the king leaves her with no choice but to rejoin her teammates. An ancient evil has been unleashed, bringing death and destruction to the nation, and they are the only ones with a chance of stopping it. Dragon Blood 6 brings back Cas, Tolemek, Ridge, Sardelle, Kaika, and Tylie, as well as her dragon, for a new epic fantasy adventure.

This is, without a doubt, the BEST Dragon Blood installment yet! I am completely breathless, a thrill ride from start to finish - beyond the end even, because based on that ending, this adventure has just begun. And there is no one that I trust more to deliver the best ending to this series than Lindsay Buroker. One thing that has become crystal clear while reading this series is the fine line that an author walks between making situations either overly serious or overly humorous. From the start I have loved the humor and wit that Buroker infuses into her characters, but not once has it taken precedence over just how serious her plotline is, that her characters are fighting for not only their lives but a whole country's while they fight a war. It is so easy for humor to take away from that, and on the flip side for an extremely serious situation to drain the personality from the characters. NOT THE CASE HERE! Buroker walks that line like a pro, and that is what makes this series so wonderful. Her characters are so rich and so vibrant and brimming with personality that my heart can't take how much I love them. If you are a fan of fantasy, do what is good for you and READ THIS SERIES!

I really liked this book as well, BUT I have to say that I grew quite tired of Cas's whining and self-pity. I understand that she feels bad for a friend's death and it's not something one gets over very easily, but I wished that she had put on her big girl socks a lot sooner. Although, her insecurities did give us a great LOTR moment 14% that made me giggle like a lunatic so it's not all bad. I love the addition of dragons and while Phel seems way too closed off and stuck on Tylie for some odd reason, I loved this story's bad guy Mor. (His name is actually longer but I'm lazy and can't bother to look up the right spelling of his tricky name.) I also hope that Sardelle and Jaxi will find out more about dragons in the final installment as these mysterious creatures no-one had seen in a thousand years are definitely something I wish to learn more about. This book was also the first that gave us more than two POVs (I guess I got what I wanted) and to my utmost surprise I actually prefer only 2 POVs to all four ... Maybe I would've liked it better if Buroker had added Kaika's POV to the others. Also, WHAT KIND OF AN ENDING WAS THAT??? I NEED THE NEXT BOOK NOW!

I am so happy to have stumbled upon this series. I started reading the first book on Oct 28th (thank BookBub) and got sucked right in. It's Nov 1st and I just finish this book (7th in the series counting Under the Ice Blades) and I am so happy that I don't have a long wait because the final installment comes out in 51 days!!! Thank you Lindsay Buroker for an action packed series filled with strong female characters, great leading men (I'm loving the brooding pirate Tolemek), magic and dragons!!! Love your writing (and appreciate your use of archaic words - love expanding my vocabulary so my brain is constantly challenged, lol) and the easy flow. You have a gift for writing -- great visual descriptions that are not overdone or detracting from the pace of the story line (I'm thinking of Robert Jordan here, r.i.p., where I think I stopped after the 9th book because it took too long to read) love the dimension of the characters and their development, love love love the action scenes and imagery, love the kick-ass and snarky elements and love the strong female leads. So happy to have found you, you are on my favorite author list with all time great, Anne McCaffrey, and my most recently additions, Meghan Ciana Doidge and Samantha Shannon!

How would you develop as a daughter of an excellent and high-priced assassin? The main character is wonderfully supported by a crew of other misfits that have developed into three dimensional, multi-faceted individuals in their own right as the series progresses. Think of the best of all genres of fiction: Magic, Love, Dragons, Explosions...and all of this with snarky wonderful interactions between the characters who you will learn to love.

This one is 3.5 to 4, instead of 4 to 4.5 like most by Lindsay Buroker, because Cas is far from cheerful company, still stricken by having caused her friend's death, and torn by the possible necessity of having to use the magic-hating slayer sword again. Still, it's well-told, and the action scenes, many of them airborne -- with both mechanical flyers (fighters and airships) and dragons involved -- are rip-snorting. Also, it ends with one heck of a cliffhanger element, though other aspects of the plot are resolved. I'm eager to go on to the next!

First of all, please realize that a 4 star rating is a high complaint rating for me. 5 stars would go to authors such as Robin Hobb with her telling of The Rain Wilds Chronicles through all her trilogies of mages, dragons, prophecy, ending in the latest trilogy Fritz and the Fool (royal assassin and white prophet). The first two books of this latest trilogy are over 1400 pages and tie into more than a dozen previous beautifully crafted books. These work of art along with the works of George Martin, and the life's work of a dozen plus works of Robert Jordan and Harry Potter's stories make up much of my 5 star fantasy ratings, but Lindsay Buroker has a magical way in her story telling. This her 6th book is a joy to read, as most of her previous Dragon Blood books are and leaves you wanting to hope the next book in the series is not that far off. I've read all of her works and found her mind and the stories she has created a joy to get lost in for a while. She one of a few online story tellers that are must to read. I have read all her published works and recommend them highly. Over the last 6 years I've read over 600 books, mostly from the library, hard copies or online lending, but my home library now contains well over a thousand books. Again I highly recommend a get away with Lindsay Buroker if you enjoy dragons, sorcerers, magic and imaginative mind lost in fantasy.
