We love this book. My 3rd grader is using it for his science and we have really enjoyed the interesting animals and pictures. Plenty of great info and interesting to kiddos. Great book!

A bit preachy with creationist position, like it's desperately trying to prove it's point.. feels a bit out of place, but otherwise OK from a zoology standpoint, as far as I can tell (in it's description of animal behaviors etc that are supported by current science, at an age-appropriate level).

I love this book, I just wish they had a pyramid of the way we divide the organization of mammals at the beginning:) I bought so I can have my daughter do an educational minecraft activity and it is going great! The whole family is learning from this book. Also like how they explain creation vs evolution vs. adaption. I have a master of science and this helps me, who was trained "secular" to see a REASONABLE explanation of creation! So I can make sense now of my own faith and science. Has given me a sort of reconciliation.

This book is my favorite homeschooling book thus far. Even my kindergartener has learned a lot and so have I. A great resource for learning about God's creation!

Great Book!

Packed full with information. Will be a great science curriculum for our family this fall. Great quality textbook. Awesome cover. Sadly, I was caught off guard by the quality of the pictures. They're blurry. Not crisp at all. Almost as though the photos were a blown up copy of a picture. I was a tad disappointed about this. Hence, the missing star.

If you are looking for a series that will keep your kids love for learning alive look no further! Apologia's philosophy is that the sciences don't go deep enough, therefore learning and interest are sacrificed. I have to agree on both counts. We just purchased this book in July...school still 2 months off and my 10 year old has been excitedly telling me facts about horses from this book. She is not a science lover by any means, but this brings it alive for her. Projects also motivating and age appropriate for ages listed in the book. We had the same reaction from her last year with Zoology II. Notebooks that are also available are a great compliment and I would highly recommend them as almost necessary to help bring the info home for them.

I love this book!! I do the work with my 11 year old and we really enjoy it. If teaching your children about creation while still being scientific based is important to you, then this is the book/series you will want to get for them.
