Journaling is a great way to work through thoughts, emotions, ideas. It allows you to really tap into your mind and soul; creating a better understanding of yourself and your thoughts/feelings. I've always loved journaling however, opening up a blank journal can be daunting. After awhile I stopped journaling because I was continually doing the same thing over and over, it got boring; I felt like I wasn't going forward. The Brave Companion Journal gives you quotes, prompted questions and fun exercises which really helps stimulate my little journaling sessions. I love how the companion journal is based around being brave, self-knowledge and awakening your courageous self! I know I need more of that! I love how it's a 30 day guided journal. Each day is laid out for you; prompting you with questions and exercises to do. It makes it really easy to put aside a few minutes; bettering yourself. I've done my first day already, and I can already tell that "spark" in me is coming back. I'm excited to do my second day!

I follow Matt on YouTube, he has inspired me and so has this journal. If you are feeling stuck in your life and need to figure out your next step, this is the journal for you.

Great way to journal your journey to a better you.

I gave this journal to a good friend for her birthday. She loves to journal and has raved about this! She said it was the best gift I ever gave her. I first saw it on Facebook. So glad I bought it for her. Very reasonably priced, too.

good

I was ready for this so that helped. I loved the prompts and was encouraged to journal for the first time in a long time.

This journal helps you stop for a few moments a day to reflect on yourself to improve the best way possible.
