Loving God: Krsna And Christ: A Christian Commentary On The Marada Sutras (Christian Commentaries On Non-Christian Sacred Texts)

Synopsis

The Nārada Smṛti on Loving God is a tenth-century Hindu manual on how, precisely, to love God. Its teachings on the importance of loving God and on the many ways of loving God have resonated eloquently down the centuries in the songs of Hindu lovers and poets. In this Christian commentary on the Nārada Smṛti, Daniel Sheridan approaches the text as a catalyst for Christian readers to renew their own Christian love for God. Each Sutra, discussed first within its original Hindu context, is brought to resonate with expressions of love of God within the Christian tradition, thus creating new harmonies and reawakening attention to layers of meaning and levels of passion contained within traditional devotional texts.

Vidyajyoti âœl found Sheridanâ€™s work academically invigorating as well as spiritually inspiring. . . . This is a work of importance, carefully prepared, systematically presented and useful for scholars as well as students of comparative theology.â•Â

Daniel P. Sheridan is professor of theology at Saint Joseph's College, Standish, Maine.

I was raised a Roman-Catholic. For some reason I have always felt I was missing something. This book provides some perspective on the relationship aspect between us and God. It's not an easy read, but it is VERY insightful.
